

Building High-Performing Offshore Teams in Johannesburg

Building High-Performing Offshore Teams in Johannesburg

In today's evolving operating landscape, organisations are rethinking not just how they work, but where they work from. Access to the right talent, in the right location, has become a strategic priority that influences growth, resilience and long-term value creation.

Johannesburg has long stood as the economic gateway of Southern Africa, and today it plays an even more strategic role as a financial, industrial and logistics hub. As South Africa's financial capital and one of the continent's leading business centres, it is home to numerous corporate headquarters, multinational operations, and fast-growing enterprises.

What sets Johannesburg apart, however, is not only economics but capability. The city offers access to a diverse, highly educated and English-fluent workforce that integrates seamlessly into global teams. This is underpinned by strong infrastructure, market connectivity and the ability to implement and scale operations at scale.

In this guide, we explore what we call the Johannesburg Advantage. Within these pages, you will discover why global organisations are increasingly choosing Johannesburg as a destination to build dedicated offshore teams, and how Potentiam supports clients to establish and integrate high-performing teams aligned to their culture, processes and long-term objectives.

This guide provides valuable insight as you consider the role Johannesburg could play in shaping your organisation's future.

Johannesburg is a city defined by momentum – ambitious professionals, dynamic industries and a deeply embedded culture of business building. It's where strategy meets execution. Not simply a lower-cost location but a high-functioning business environment where global companies can build, scale and deliver with confidence”.

Johannesburg: A Strategic Gateway for Global Business

Johannesburg has become a compelling choice for organisations looking to build and scale offshore capability. With strong overlap with UK working hours, modern infrastructure and reliable connectivity, it enables seamless, real-time collaboration across geographies.

Location	 Johannesburg, South Africa
Time Zone	 GMT+2
Proximity to UK	 +/- 11-hour direct flight; visa-free travel for UK nationals
Languages	 English is widely spoken with a clear, neutral accent
Cultural alignment	 Strong alignment with UK business culture, communication styles and professional standards
Work ethic	 Highly proactive, adaptable professionals who integrate seamlessly into global teams and workflows
Academic strength	 Leading universities and institutions produce a consistent pipeline of graduates across business, technology and creative fields, supported by strong digital literacy
Talent strength	 Established talent pools across technology, operations, customer experience and commercial roles
Regulatory environment	 South Africa's POPIA regulations align with GDPR principles, reducing compliance complexity for international organisations
Employee retention	 Lower attrition rates supported by strong career-path opportunities and long-term employment outlook
Cost advantage	 Compelling value-to-skill ratio, with typical labour cost savings of 30-50% compared to the UK

Scaling Faster and Smarter with Offshore Teams in Johannesburg

UK organisations face growing pressure to scale capabilities while controlling costs and accessing specialised talent. By building offshore teams in Johannesburg, companies can expand capacity, strengthen operational capabilities and accelerate growth without increasing onshore headcount.

1 Optimise costs while maintaining quality

Access highly skilled professionals at competitive labour rates, enabling organisations to scale teams efficiently while maintaining the same level of expertise as UK-based staff and reducing operational expenses.

2 Access high-quality talent pool

Johannesburg offers access to a diverse, multicultural and highly skilled workforce, particularly strong in technical, administrative and customer service roles characterised by strong work ethic and accountability.

3 Align with UK work culture

Teams are attuned to UK business practices, communication and professional expectations, making them a reliable choice for roles requiring brand-sensitive communication and customer interactions.

4 Strengthen compliance and risk functions

Professionals are well-versed in international standards, and South Africa's POPIA regulations align closely with GDPR principles, reducing compliance friction for regulated industries.

5 Scale operations and market reach

Offshore teams enable businesses to scale operations without increasing UK headcount, keeping HQ lean while increasing capacity and expanding into new markets with minimal overhead.

6 Boost capacity and collaboration

With overlapping UK working hours, Johannesburg teams work in real time with onshore, reliably handling operational and structured tasks, freeing UK teams to focus on strategic, high-value initiatives.

Capability You Can Build in Johannesburg

Johannesburg offers access to a diverse, highly educated, English-fluent workforce that integrates seamlessly into global teams. Strong cultural alignment further reduces friction, enabling offshore teams to embed quickly and operate as a natural extension of onshore functions.

Client Case Study

In the following case study, you will see how Codestone has partnered with Potentiam in Johannesburg to build a high-performing offshore team, enabling them to overcome key growth challenges and scale with confidence.

Codestone: Achieving Revenue Growth While Protecting EBITDA Margins

Codestone built a distributed global delivery model through offshoring that scales with demand, addresses critical technology and innovation talent shortages and drives revenue growth while protecting EBITDA margins.

IMPACT AT A GLANCE

21 roles hired and integrated into Codestone's delivery structure

Delivery bottlenecks eased across SAP and Microsoft Cloud services

UK team freed up to focus on higher-value, strategic engagements

We're not scaling by cutting corners. We're scaling by building capability. The offshore teams Potentiam helped us embed are fully aligned with how we deliver. They've given us the flexibility, speed, and control we needed to hit our growth targets – whilst extending our competitive edge."

Darryl Sackett,
CEO, Codestone Group

The Challenge

Codestone's growth trajectory required a delivery model that could scale quickly and sustainably without compromising quality or eroding margins. The challenge wasn't simply about increasing headcount but about redesigning where and how capability was built, with a focus on improving revenue-to-cost yield, addressing critical technology and innovation talent shortages, and protecting EBITDA margins while scaling from SME to enterprise-grade engagements. This was compounded by delivery strain across SAP and Microsoft Cloud services, UK talent scarcity in areas such as SAP Business One, Microsoft Azure, Power BI and Tagetik, and the need to maintain culture, quality, and consistency while introducing offshore capacity for the first time.

The Solution

Codestone's approach was not to outsource delivery, but to build embedded capability aligned with its people, processes, and long-term operating model. Rather than treating offshoring as a standalone cost initiative, the offshore pilot became the foundation of a scalable delivery structure designed to expand access to global talent while strengthening margin performance. Potentiam supported Codestone in defining the roles, designing the structure, and embedding a team that integrated seamlessly into onshore delivery, with a strong emphasis on precision hiring, cultural alignment, and operational integration to ensure the offshore team functioned as a natural extension of the existing organisation.

Why it Worked

The success of Codestone's offshore model was driven by clear business objectives and a strong human-centric approach that ensured the offshore team felt fully embedded within the business rather than operating as a separate function. Success depended on hiring for attitude as much as technical capability and building strong cohesion between onshore and offshore teams. Over time, the offshore capability evolved beyond its pilot phase to become a core part of the business, expanding delivery capacity, improving utilisation of UK-based consultants and protecting margins while enabling sustainable growth, ultimately giving Codestone a proven blueprint for a distributed global delivery model that scales with demand rather than being constrained by it.

Potentiam's Offices in Johannesburg

Potentiam's Johannesburg office is located in Midrand, the city's leading commercial hub, within easy reach of O.R. Tambo International Airport, enabling convenient domestic and international travel.

The modern office environment is well connected via efficient transport links such as the Gautrain and is ideally positioned to take advantage of the city's cosmopolitan character, diverse dining scene and vibrant urban lifestyle. How Johannesburg Scores

Choosing an offshore location means weighing multiple factors - from cost and capability to cultural alignment and ease of collaboration. Here's how Johannesburg performs across the key criteria that influence long-term success.

Dimension	Why It Matters
Cost	Operating costs for equivalent roles are typically 30–50% lower than in the UK , creating sustainable savings that can be reinvested into growth.
Flexibility	Potential builds permanent, embedded teams designed for long-term growth. We offer the option to start with smaller teams as a proof of concept and scale as your needs evolve.
Language	Business is conducted in English to a high professional standard, ensuring clarity in written and verbal exchanges.
Independence	Johannesburg staff operate as independent, highly autonomous professionals, building long-term knowledge and expertise within your team.
Cultural Fit	South Africa's workplace culture shares many values and practices with the UK , creating a smooth path to integration and collaboration.
Recruit Speed	Roles in Johannesburg typically take 4 - 6 weeks to fill, compared to 6 - 12+ weeks in the UK for many functions. Not instant, but faster and more predictable.
Availability	Johannesburg has over 250,000 professionals in business services and tech. South African professionals also work ~5 more hours per week on average than UK counterparts, adding to throughput and delivery consistency.
Time Zone	Operating on GMT+2, Johannesburg is 1 hour ahead of the UK in summer and 2 hours ahead in winter , enabling real-time collaboration, daily standups, and same-day turnaround.
Proximity	Direct flights from London to Johannesburg take 11–12 hours , with visa-free travel for UK nationals. Easier access than Asia or LATAM.
